Recent Trends in Forest Water and Wildlife Management

Aim & Scope

This edited book aims to bring together all the recent and available information on the multifaceted research that unravels the scientific study of recent trends in forest, water and wildlife management. It will be of colossal use to all the researchers and passionate teachers who are currently working on the field of forest, water and wildlife management. The relationship among forest and its different components with water, wildlife and many more in current scenario will be discoursed in detail either through methodical reviews or by original research articles. Since many researchers are working in forest, water and wildlife, this edited book will be looked for and commendable.

The below-mentioned chapters are anticipated in the edited book. The title is not final; authors can change the title as per the contents of their chapters. However, the major content of the chapters in the book will be fixed. New chapter titles that include any recent report on groundwater, wildlife dependency on the water, Urban watersheds management are also welcome. Book chapters can be either reviews or unpublished original research articles. Contributors are requested to submit an abstract of one full page with title and tentative subtitles, 4-5 key words and details of all authors including email address of the corresponding author.

Contents

1. Role of forest, water and wildlife in adaptation to adverse effects of climate change in current scenario
2. Assess the interactions of forest and water, and wildlife in association with forest management to support forest landscape management
3. Examine the effects of forest management, afforestation and reforestation at local and regional scales on forest, water, and wildlife interactions, and other ecological services
4. Sustainable Development goals: Their impact on forest, water and wildlife
5. Global water provision: Understanding the forest soil-water nexus under forest management, climate change and increasing disturbances
6. Restoring forests and trees: Balancing goals, interests and trade-offs
7. Socio-ecological conflicts in forest, water and wildlife management
8. Climate Smart Forestry and its impact to water and wildlife
9. Coastal Blue Forests: Global Significance, Ecology, Management and Conservation
10. Forest genetics tools to improve forest resilience to climate change and forest health
11. Forest management solutions under global change: connections between tree breeding, intensive silviculture and wood quality
12. Forest Wetlands as Nature Based Solutions for Water, Biodiversity and Climate
13. Forestry impacts on water quality, aquatic biodiversity and ecosystem functions
14. Wildlife use and defaunation in the world's forest - what do we know about its impacts and responses?
15. Conflicts in Forest Settings
16. Valuation of water and biodiversity co-benefits in carbon forestry schemes
17. Developments in complex remote sensing-assisted forest surveys to support monitoring and assessment of forest, water and wildlife resources
18. Recent trends in forest, water and wildlife management globally

Author Benefits

1. Selected chapters (not all) will be indexed in R Square L and other indexing platforms including Amazon, Google Books etc.
2. Publication of chapter in book series with ISBN / ISSN
